

You can help prevent colorectal cancer.

If you're 45 or older, talk to your Primary Care Physician about getting screened for colorectal cancer.

If you are 45 or older, you're at a higher risk for colon cancer - even if you're healthy.

Colorectal cancer is one of the leading causes of cancer death in both men and women, yet it can often be prevented.

Regular screenings can help catch colon cancer at an early stage when it's small and easier to treat, or help prevent it all together.

Preventing colorectal cancer or finding it early doesn't have to be expensive. There are simple, affordable take-home tests available.

Talk to your primary care physician about colorectal screening options today.

You can help prevent colorectal cancer.

For more information on colorectal cancer, visit cancer.org or talk to your Primary Care Physician.

